Loris Marini

Engineer and Scientist

I am critical thinker and team-player, with distinguished people skills and diverse technical background. I enjoy sharing knowledge and presenting in public, and I like simple solutions to complex problems. In my last experience, I worked at the intersection of data analysis, software development, and data engineering to develop a data-driven culture in a vibrant startup. I work best in small teams with complementary skills, where ideas flow fast and the technology developed improves people's lives.